The Challenge

Financing infrastructure has become more difficult than actually building it.

Not due to lack of financing dollars: U.S. DOT has over $50 billion available in Federal assistance programs

Access to this financing is complicated by federal regulations, complex credit structures, and the need to coordinate with multiple points of contact within the federal government

Role of the BATIC

The Single point of contact and coordination for states, municipalities and project sponsors seeking federal transportation expertise, federal transportation credit programs and ways to access private capital in public private partnerships.

How BATIC Helps

BATIC addresses barriers to increased investment and development by:

- Intervening earlier in project lifecycles,
- Actively helping sponsors navigate and accelerate the complex federal permitting and procedural requirements,
- Centralizing project coordination and,
- Cultivating public private partnerships
